Why did the monster eat only the candles on his birthday cake?

Yo Ho Ho!

Avast, ye landlubbers! If ye wanna be a pirate, get your sea legs by taking this quiz afore ye set sail.

1. When a pirate is “tipping the black spot,” he is:
 - a. making a death threat.
 - b. swabbing a dirty deck.
 - c. removing his eye patch.
2. What is a “poop deck”?
 - a. the place where seagulls like to poop on a ship.
 - b. the deck above the captain’s quarters at the stern (rear) of the ship.
 - c. where pirates go to the bathroom, also known as the “head.”
3. When a pirate “takes a caulk,” he is:
 - a. taking a nap on deck.
 - b. brushing his teeth.
 - c. going to the bathroom.
4. What are “long clothes”?
 - a. rough-weather gear pirates wear when sailing through hurricanes.
 - b. dresses female pirates wear.
 - c. baggy pants and loose jackets that only landlubbers wear.
5. What is a Yellow Jack?
 - a. pirate slang for a yellow jacket.
 - b. the name of a legendary sea monster known to have sunken many a ship to “Davy Jones’s locker.”
 - c. A warning flag. When a Yellow Jack is flown, it means there’s a contagious illness (like the plague) on board.

Yo Ho Answers:

1. a) When a pirate delivers a death threat, he slips his victim a piece of paper with a black smudge on one side.
2. b) A poop deck is the highest deck on a sailing ship.
3. a) A “caulk” of black tar and rope was stuffed between the planks on a ship’s deck to keep water from leaking in. When pirates slept on deck, they’d often wake

4. c) Pirates couldn’t risk wearing anything loose fitting that might get in their way while climbing the masts to trim the sails in foul weather.
5. c) Merchant ships often flew a Yellow Jack to keep pirate ships from attacking them.

Nine Amazing Fish Facts

These may sound fishy, but they are absolutely true.

1. A lobster's teeth are in its stomach.
2. A shrimp's heart is in its head.
3. A horseshoe crab has 10 eyes. They're placed all over its body—even on its tail.
4. You can estimate a fish's age by its scales. You can count the growth rings, just like you'd count the rings on a tree.
5. Fish can get seasick. Keep a fish in a pail of water on a rolling ship, and sooner or later that fish will barf.
6. Fish get dandruff. It's caused by flaking skin (as it is in humans), and there's nothing they can do about it.
7. Some fish can breathe air. Small fish like betas and gouramis have an organ called a labyrinth that lets them breathe fresh air. It allows them to survive in water with low oxygen levels.
8. Fish can talk to each other. Some rasp their teeth or make noises in their throats; other fish use their swim bladders like a horn.
9. Fish can change sex. Boy? Girl? Many fish start out as one sex and turn into the other later on. Some deepwater fish are both sexes all the time. That means they never need to look for a mate to have babies.
